Our Goal

Our goal on emergency services has been, and continues to be, to avail excellence in veterinary emergency medical care while simultaneously respecting the confidence of clients' regular veterinarians. For our referral patients and those coming from surrounding general practices, we rigidly adhere to a policy of ensuring they return to their primary care veterinarian, who will be apprised through fax, email, and/or phone conversation of the nature and particulars of their patient's emergency treatment. Our emphasis on returning a patient to their primary care veterinarian is not just based on collaborative ideals, but is motivated by knowing that the primary care veterinarian has the most ethos and historical objectivity of a patient's medical history and idiosyncratic sensitivities to continue informed treatment and follow-up. As such, we pledge to closely coordinate all the particulars of the referral patient's emergency presentation, diagnosis, and treatment course with your veterinarian.
